performed is regarded by the faculty and administration as a most serious offense and renders the offender liable to serious consequences, possibly suspension.

1. Cheating: Dishonesty of any kind on examinations or on written assignments, illegal possession of examinations, the use of unauthorized notes during an examination, obtaining information during an examination from the textbook or from the examination paper of another student, assisting others to cheat, alteration of grade records, illegal entry or unauthorized presence in an office are examples of cheating.

Complete honesty is required of the student in the presentation of any and all phases of course work. This applies to quizzes of whatever length as well as to final examinations, to daily reports and to term papers.

2. Plagiarism: Offering the work of another as one's own, without proper acknowledgment, is plagiarism; therefore, any student who fails to give credit for quotations or essentially identical expression of material taken from books, encyclopedias, magazines and other reference works, or from the themes, reports or other writings of a fellow student, is guilty of plagiarism.

3. Professionalism: The courses in your program of study are designed to prepare you for employment in the work world. - C. Class Attendance:
Students are expected to attend all classes in order to be successful in a course. The student may be administratively withdrawn from the course when absences become excessive as defined in the course syllabus.

When an unavoidable reason for class absence arises, such as illness, an official trip authorized by the college or an official activity, the instructor may permit the student to make up work missed. It is the student's responsibility to complete work missed within a reasonable period of time as determined by the instructor. Students are officially enrolled in all courses for which they pay tuition and fees at the time of registration. Should a student, for any reason, delay in reporting to a class after official enrollment, absences will be attributed to the student from the first class meeting.

Students who enroll in a course but have "Never Attended" by the official census date, as reported by the faculty member, will be administratively dropped by the Office of Admissions and Records. A student who does not meet the attendance requirements of a class as stated in the course syllabus and does not officially withdraw from that course by the official census date of the semester, may be administratively withdrawn from that course and receive a grade of "X" or "F" as determined by the instructor. Instructors are responsible for clearly stating their administrative drop policy in the course syllabus, and it is the student's responsibility to be aware of that policy.

It is the student's responsibility to verify administrative drops for excessive absences through MySPC using his or her student online account. If it is determined that a student is awarded financial aid for a class or classes in which the student never attended or participated, the financial aid award will be adjusted in accordance with the classes in which the student did attend/participate and the student will owe any balance resulting from the adjustment.

A student who stops attending class must take the responsibility of contacting the Registrar's Office to drop the class. (see college catalog) If the student fails to do this, the instructor will administratively withdraw the student after two weeks of absences (consecutive or not – on the 5th absence/you are allowed 4 absences) with a grade of "X" or "F".

Student will be counted absent for an entire class period (after 1 warning) for the following:

- Texting during class
- Instant Messaging during class
- Sleeping during class
- Excessive Tardiness (After 2nd)
- Leaving class early
- Off topic/disruptive, excessive discussion with other students

This classroom is a PROFESSIONAL environment, and I treat it as such. Business students in particular must understand how to conduct themselves in a professional environment. I expect exceptional behavior from ALL of my students! I consider this course to be your job – and I expect behavior to reflect that – if you are late to your job, or turn in work late in the real world, you would be terminated from that job/career – I take on the same assumptions in this course. Please be mindful of the attendance policy, and the "NO LATE WORK ACCEPTED" policy, as I do NOT make ANY exceptions to these rules!

- D. Assignment Policy: Students are responsible for all class work and notes covered during absences from class with no exceptions. Students are also responsible to be adequately prepared before each class—all reading assignments, cases, etc. If absent, student should contact immediately another student in the class and/or the instructor to receive notes and assignments.
- E. Grading Policy/Procedure and/or methods of evaluation: The student's grade will be determined upon performance on examinations and/or other course work as assigned by the individual instructor.
